

Faisal Alajmi

Sultan Faleh

Exercise 1

Func:

1-user should be able to use a username and password to a login page to access the system and compare the user and password with the database.

2-the user should be able to request a view list of courses by many options for viewing such as by professor names, major names, and semester type at the time of registration

3-the user shall be able to add courses in the webpage that shows the list of courses available from the database, remove registered courses from the schedule webpage that reflects the schedule table in the database, and change the registered courses by the course number in the allowed specific time for changes

Non func:

1- the process for login should be within a 2 seconds range to be done

2-the performance of viewing the list should be acceptable and clear

3-the process of adding, removing, and changing should be reliable and the data must be stored

Exercise 2

Func:

- 1- user should be able to use a username and password to a login page to access the system and compare the user and password with the database.
- 2- The system should accept short names for the items listed, and the pricing should allow the user to set a specific price range, or a specific price amount. Moreover, searching by category should cover all the products different types.
- 3- The system shall reflect the total price of the receipt for customer and should ask for the phone number or email for sending the receipt copy.

Non func:

- 1- The process of ordering and placing orders shall be fast and stored for later access. (performance)
- 2- The online store shall be available 24/7 for convenient shopping experience. (availability)
- 3- the online store should be easy to use and navigate for all people. (usability)